St. John Vianney- The Cure D'Ars Catechism on Salvation

There are many Christians who do not even know why they are in the world. "Oh my God, why hast Thou sent me into this world?" "To save your soul." "And why dost Thou wish me to be saved?" "Because I love you." The good God has created us and sent us into the world because He loves us; He wishes to save us because He loves us...To be saved, we must know, love and serve God. Oh, what a beautiful life! How good, how great a thing it is to know, to love and serve God! We have nothing else to do in this world. All we do besides is lost time. We must act only for God, and put our works into His hands...We should say on awaking, "I desire to do everything today for Thee, O my God! I will submit to all that Thou shalt send me, as coming from Thee. I offer myself as a sacrifice to Thee. But O God, I can do nothing without Thee. Do Thou help me!" Oh, how bitterly shall we regret at the hour of death the time we have given to pleasures, to useless conversations, to repose, instead of having employed it in mortification, in prayer, in good works, in thinking of our poor misery, in weeping over our poor sins, then we shall see that we have done nothing for Heaven. Oh, my children, how sad it is! Three-quarters of those who are Christians labor for nothing but to satisfy this body, which will soon be buried and corrupted, while they do not give a thought to their poor soul, which must be happy or miserable for all eternity. They have no sense or reason: It makes one tremble. Look at that man, who is so active and restless, who makes a noise in the world, who wants to govern everybody, who thinks himself of consequence, who seems as if he would say to the sun, "Go away, and let me enlighten the world instead of you." Someday this proud man will be reduced to a little dust, which will be swept away from river to river, from Saone to Saone, and at last into the sea. (To be continued)
