St. John Vianney- The Cure D'Ars Catechism on Salvation

"It is a strange thing; I have met plenty of people who repented at not having loved God. Never have I met one who repented of having loved Him." St. John Vianney

See my children, I often think that we are like those little heaps of sand that the wind raises on the road, which whirl round for a moment, and are scattered directly...We have brothers and sisters who are dead. Well, they are reduced to that little handful of dust of which I was speaking. Worldly people say, it is too difficult to save one's soul. Yet nothing is easier. To observe the Commandments of God and the Church, and to avoid the seven capital sins; or if you like to put it so, to do good and avoid evil: that is all. Good Christians, who labor to save their souls and to work out their salvation, are always happy and contented; they enjoy beforehand the happiness of Heaven: they will be happy for all eternity. While bad Christians, who lose their souls are always to be pitied; they murmur, they are sad, they are miserable as stones; and they will be so for all eternity. See what a difference!

This is a good rule of conduct, to do nothing that cannot be offered to the good God. Now, we cannot offer to Him slanders, calumnies, injustice, anger, blasphemies, impurity, theaters, dancing; yet that is all that people do in the world. Speaking of dances, St. Francis De Sales used to say that "they were like mushrooms, the best were good for nothing." Mothers are apt to say indeed "Oh, I watch over my daughters." They watch over their attire, but they cannot watch over their hearts. Those who have dances in their houses load themselves with a terrible responsibility before God; they are answerable for all the evil that is done - for the bad thoughts, the slanders, the jealousies, the hatred, the revenge....Ah, if they well understood this responsibility they would never have any dances. Just like those who make bad pictures and statues, or write bad books, they will have to answer for all the harm that these things will during all the time they will last...Oh that makes me tremble!

See, my children we must reflect that we have a soul to save, an eternity that awaits us. The world, its riches, pleasures, and honors will pass away. Let us take care, then. The saints did not all begin well; but they all ended well. We have begun badly; let us end well, and we shall go one day and meet them in Heaven.
